The spacious accommodation comprises an entrance porch, downstairs cloakroom, utility room, well-appointed kitchen/breakfast room, generous sitting room, dining room with adjoining office space (limited head height in this room), and a light-filled conservatory overlooking the gardens. Uffington

Located on the edge of the pretty village of Uffington, in the Vale of the White Horse, just north of the Berkshire Downs. The village boasts its own museum, the Thomas Hughes Museum - the author having been born in Uffington Vicarage - and the Poet Laureate, Sir John Betjeman also having lived in the village. Uffington has a majestic church regarded as the Cathedral of the Vale, a well-equipped village store with Post Office, a popular primary school and pre-school, together with a lovely traditional public house, village hall, community sports ground and a host of community organisations. Overlooking the village is the chalk White Horse, which was cut into the hillside some 3,000 years ago. The village has good road links to Oxford (15 miles) and Swindon (11 miles) via the A420, with more local facilities and secondary schools available in the nearby market towns of Faringdon (6 miles) and Wantage (7 miles). Major rail links to London and the west are available from Swindon, Didcot and Oxford. The village is well positioned for a number of excellent independent schools such as St Hugh's and Pinewood Prep schools, as well as Abingdon School, Radley College, Our Ladies and St Helens & St Katharine's, all of which are in and around Abingdon (15 miles).
